QUINTARA BIOSCIENCES, INC.,

Plaintiff,

No. C 20-04808 WHA

v.

RUIFENG BIZTECH INC., GANGYOU
WANG, ALAN LI, and RF BIOTECH LLC,

Defendants.

ORDER GRANTING MOTION TO HOLD DEFENDANTS' COUNSEL IN CONTEMPT

On September 22, an order continued the hearing on plaintiff's motion to hold defendants' counsel in contempt (Dkt. No. 407; see Dkt. No. 405). It explained that the hearing would be scheduled once the motion was fully briefed, noted that the opposition was due on October 5, and expressly reminded Attorney Reshma Kamath that she remained counsel of record for defendants (Dkt. No. 407 at 3). Within thirty minutes of the order's issuance, Attorney Kamath filed a notice stating, inter alia, that she "will NOT appear, and will NOT file any filings for . . . [the] frivolous motion of contempt" (Dkt. No. 408 at 3). October 5 came and went, and no opposition was ever filed. On October 12, plaintiff submitted a notice of non-receipt of opposition (Dkt. No. 414). No response to this notice was ever filed either.

In light of that, and having provided ample opportunity for Attorney Kamath to weigh in, this order finds the motion suitable for disposition on the papers under Local Rule 7-1(b). The hearing on the motion is VACATED. For the reasons stated herein, the motion to hold defendants' counsel in contempt is GRANTED.

1 To recap, on June 5, Magistrate Judge Thomas Hixson ordered Attorney Kamath to pay
2 plaintiff sanctions in the amount of $5,096.61 within thirty days, i.e., by July 5 (Dkt. No. 310
3 at 3). That amount corresponds to the fees and costs incurred by plaintiff in attending a
4 scheduled in-person settlement conference that Attorney Kamath failed to attend (see Dkt.
5 Nos. 296, 298). Attorney Kamath did not pay sanctions as ordered, nor did she move for relief
6 from a nondispositive pretrial order of a magistrate judge as set out in Local Rule 72-2. Less
7 than an hour after the order issued, however, Attorney Kamath filed an objection that referred 8 to the ““ORDER AWARDING SANCTIONS’ dated June 5, 2023” and established that she 9 “will NOT be paying the sanctions” (Dkt. No. 311 at 2).

10 Then, on July 21, after plaintiff suggested that Attorney Kamath’s objection should be 11 interpreted as a motion, this judge issued an order that took up the arguments raised therein and 12 concluded relief from the June 5 order was unwarranted (Dkt. No. 374; see Tr. 1003:4– 13 1004:3). The July 21 order therefore required Attorney Kamath to pay plaintiff sanctions in 14 the amount of $5,096.61 within fourteen days, i.e., by August 4 (Dkt. No. 374 at 5). Less than 15 an hour after the order issued, Attorney Kamath filed a letter stating that she was “in receipt of 16 the Order dated July 21, 2023” and that she would “present Objections to the Court’s Order
17 dated July 21, 2023” (Dkt. No. 375). No such objections were ever presented. Again,
18 Attorney Kamath did not pay sanctions as ordered.

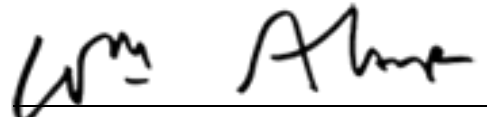

19 “The standard for finding a party in civil contempt is well settled: The moving party has 20 the burden of showing by clear and convincing evidence that the contemnors violated a 21 specific and definite order of the court. The burden then shifts to the contemnors to 22 demonstrate why they were unable to comply.” Harmon v. City of Santa Clara, 323 F.R.D.
23 617, 626 (N.D. Cal. 2018) (Judge Nathanael M. Cousins) (internal quotation and citation 24 omitted). Here, there is no question that Attorney Kamath violated the specific and definite
25 June 5 order awarding sanctions as well as the specific and definite July 21 order affirming
26 sanctions. And, with the burden shifted, there was no meaningful attempt by Attorney Kamath
27 to demonstrate why she was unable to comply with these orders. Even generously interpreting
28 her June 5 objection as such an attempt, that cannot excuse Attorney Kamath’s failure to pay

1 sanctions after the arguments therein were rejected on July 21. This contempt motion is hardly
2 frivolous, as Attorney Kamath had suggested. It is ironclad.

3 Accordingly, Attorney Kamath is hereby ADJUDGED IN CIVIL CONTEMPT for failure to 4 comply with the June 5 and July 21 orders requiring that she pay sanctions to plaintiff in the 5 amount of $5,096.61. Plaintiff's request for leave to apply for reasonable fees and costs in 6 connection with its contempt motion is GRANTED. By MONDAY, NOVEMBER 20, AT NOON,
7 plaintiff's counsel shall file a declaration itemizing those reasonable fees and costs incurred, to 8 be paid by Attorney Kamath in civil contempt sanctions if approved. Plaintiff's request for a
9 per diem fine on Attorney Kamath until she has paid sanctions will be considered upon receipt
10 of the ordered declaration and confirmation that Attorney Kamath still refuses to pay sanctions
11 having been adjudged a contemnor.

12 IT IS SO ORDERED.

13
14 Dated: November 13, 2023.
